ROI #2

Joe Deluca, Executive Vice President and General Manager of the Times Publishing Company (Tampa Bay) with overall responsibility for leading the Times' strategic planning team and execution of its business strategy across the organization, is ING's afternoon keynote speaker who will reveal the path forward for every newspaper across the US:

EMBRACING THE CHALLENGE & LEADING THE CHARGE – Current state of demand for our product; Technologies impact on customer behavior and perception of our industry

ROI #3

Networking with your peers

Whether small market family owned newspapers, suburban dailies, weeklies, shoppers, large metros – they all have many of the same issues you have. And they will be at ING 2019!

ING 2019 is perhaps your only chance to talk with production execs and learn how they are dealing with lost revenues, reduced staff, aging equipment and technology challenges.

The friends you make here can be your "lifelines" or your go-to experts, well after the Summit is over!

The ONLY Leadership Networking Event for Newspaper Production, Operations and Logistics Leaders

ING 2019 is the ONE gathering where every single production exec attending will bring home information, answers and contacts crucial to the well-being of their operations.

Register today and as a newspaper production executive, you will receive 15% off registration (through August 31). Hurry spots are filling fast.
